LOUISVILLE.

The Southern Commercial Convention—Speeches of Gov. Stephenson and Ex. President Fillmore—Committees and Resolutions.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

LOUISVILLE, October 12.—The Southern Commercial Convention met in the Odera House this morning and was called to order at half-past 11 o'clock, by Ex-Governor Anderson, of Kentucky, who was President of the Convention held in Memphis in May last. Governor Anderson introduced Governor Stephenson to the Convention, who delivered the following brilliant address:

ADDRESS OF GOVERNOR STEPHENSON.

The scene presented by such an assembly as that before which I now stand is grand—I may say touchingly impressive. So many honored, noble commonwealths in an enlightened and fraternal consultation upon the soil of Kentucky. Such a mighty host of representative men, distintinguished alike for their virtue, wisdom and practical experience, coming to-day from different States and diverse portions of the American Confederacy, to deliberate upon and to discuss great problems of policy effecting the material and commercial prosperity of the entire country; drawn here by no motive for political supremacy; struggling for no ignoble or selfish end; seeking no aggradizement upon land or upon sea, of one section at the injury of another; to devise new schemes; to inaugurate more active measures; to enlist augmented capital, and inspire new energy in each and every section of our wide domain; for the greater development of our industrial resources,—you come from your distant homes to our own "dark and bloody ground" to meet us, to mingle with us, to interchange opinions, and to take counsel of one another as to the mode and manner of enlarging our national prosperity. There is joy in your coming. It stirs our blood—it warms our hearts—the very spectacle electrifies us—we feel that the genius of patriotism hovers over us—that the sainted spirits of our Revolutionary fathers are whispering in our ears: GOD SPEED—ONWARD.

We receive you, brethren of the Commercial Convention, with gladness. In the name, and in behalf of the entire people of Kentucky, from Big Sandy to the Mississippi, from the Ohio to the Cumberland Gap, I cordially and affectionately greet you. All hail your advent among us! We give you thanks that we are permitted to know you, to see you face to face. We receive you as representatives of a Convention of brotherhood, we hail with joy the occasion which made you receipients of our hospitality and our cheerful welcoming to Kentucky. Welcome to this enterprising, growing and beautiful metropolis of our own lovely commonwealth. Welcome, thrice welcome to our homes and to our hearts.

You meet gentlemen at a period when the intellectual and physical energy of the world is intensely active—superlatively active—in its multiplied agencies, and still grander in its results. Past ages have been permitted to do nothing like it. Both in the old world and in the new the achievements of genius, and and the triumphs of human will, and heroic endurances, startle and astound us alike with their matchless success. Human foresight falters at the grandeur of the schemes in material progress which have crowned our past and fleeting decade—man's faith fails at what will be accomp ished during that which is to follow, if the beneficence of a merciful and all-wise God permits his people to behold its close.

The Atlantic ocean has ceased to be longer an obstacle to instantaneous communications between Europe and America. More than one submarine cable already unites America with England and France. The prices current of Liverpool and Havre are momentarily exchanged for those of New York and New Orleans, and official dispatches are passing hourly between the diplomats of London, Paris and Washington. The sneering and dogmatic skeptic who so persistently predicted the failure of the Atlantic submarine cable, must soon prepare himself to behold others upon new and grander principles, which shall connect America by electric wires with the civilized world. The lofty Alps, the mighty and impassible barriers for so many centuries to short transits, yield alike to the power and will of man. Mount Cenis has been pierced, and is being tunnelled, and the shrill whistle of the locomotive will soon reverberate amid its cliffs and perpetual snow.

Ere to.morrow's sun shall reach its meridian, the nations of the earth will learn that the greatest and grandest enterprise of human effort is a magnificent success. At that hour, upon the distant shores of the Mediterranean, the crowned heads of Europe, in all their glittering pageantry, will constitute a part of a mighty throng who then and there assemble to witness and commemorate the completion of a ship canal over the Isthmus of Suez. What a scene! What a work! What a triumph! What human calculation shall measure the influence of the successful inauguration of such an achievement upon the commerce of the world?

Bombay, Madras and Calcutta brought at once into quick commercial transit with Liverpool and London—ships laden with the magic wealth of the Indies and the exhaustless manufactures of the western world, passing from sea to sea, over an arid desert of sand, ninety miles in extent, by means of a canal of an average depth of twenty four feet, and varying at the top and bottom from 150 to 300 feet in width.

For such an achievement civilization will be indebted to Ferdinand De Lesseps, whose genius, skill and endurance triumphs alike over the terrors of the monsoon, the floods of the Red sea; the inundations of the Nile, and even nature itself. Immeasenable as must be the success of this mighty work upon the trade and commerce of the world, other and greater results may follow it—may hasten to sanctify another and holier union. The followers of Mahomet and those of Jesus Christ must now be brought in closer contact—ties of human interests will blend them together.

Commerce and missions have always been twin agents in the diffusion of civilization, and in the social and commercial advancement of our race they have often proved the pioneers of each other. It was the merchants of A'Malfi who, by their traffic, first opened the path for Christians to Jerusalem. Who will dare say that this new link in the commercial pathway between the East and West may not become an instrumentality under Divine power of supplanting the Koran with His own Bible.

Our own country presents cheering signs of industrial and commercial progress. A portion of that prophetic intellect of one of the great triumvirate of American statesmen, all of whom have now passed away, made before an assembly like this, on the 14th of November, 1845, has been fully and gloriously fulfilled. The eternal snow of the Sierras has been passed, and the Pacific and Atlantic oceans, which alike wash our shores, have been united by a continuous line of railroads across the American continent. Its success as a highway of commerce only necessitates the construction of another through the west and south upon a grander scale at an early day. It is your mission to see that such a work is not postponed, and that active measures are at once taken for its prompt commencement and speedy completion. We must have direct trade with Europe to the south and west. Norfolk, with a harbor unequalled, must and will be ere long the terminus of such a transit. To-day a convention is sitting in Utrecht to determine the American port at which the flourhing line of steamers from Holland shall terminate.

Let none suppose that the measures proposed to be inaugurated and acted upon by this Convention are those pertaining exclusively to the South and West. It is not so. The entire country is directly interested in the commercial, manufacturing and industrial interests of all its parts. We desire to enlist the capital from the North and East to aid in stimulating the industrial interests of the South. We invoke aid from the East, to invite immigration to the South, by which the growth of its staple may be largely increased. We require the counsel of all patriotic men, from every section, to discuss and consider with us the great problem of a sound currency; to prevent such a centralization of capital in cities, as to allow values to be artificially raised or depressed at the whim and caprice of combined and reckless speculators.

The heart of Kentucky is big enough to embrace representatives from every section of the American Union, and welcome them as brethren, and I am quite sure that each and every representative before me would lend his ready aid to the Southern States, whose people have proved their nobility in affliction and in adversity, if that aid were required in building up their industrial interests. Brethren, we have one country—one Constitution—one destiny. The stars of our political system, like those of the blue firmament above us, differ from one another only in glory. This is America's birth-day. It is the anniversary of its discovery. Can we better celebrate it than by uniting our efforts for intellectual and physical development, and pledging each section to the other that the American States shall always be the custodian of civil and religious liberty?

Blanton Duncan, Esq., Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, then nominated for President of the Convention ex-President Millard Fillmore, who was unanimously chosen. He was then introduced to the Convention by Governor Stevenson, who spoke as follows:

INTRODUCTION OF EX PRESILENT FILMORE.

Gentlemen of the Convention: In the whole course of my eventful life I have never performed a duty that gave me greater pleasure than this one. I am about to present or introduce to this Convention a distinguished son of the Empire State—the pioneer State of civilization and freedom—the favorite son of that State that has made such prodigious strides in the advancement of civilization and arts—that man, though the favorite son of New York, forgot New York when he came to be President of these United States, in order that he might stand by the Constitution (great applause), and by that proved himself to be the President of the entire Union. I now present that distinguished son in the person of the Hon. Millard Fillmore. (Applause.)

When President Fillmore stepped forward he was greeted with long and enthusiastic applause. In accepting the office conferred upon him, Mr. Fillmoro said:

MILLARD FILMORE'S ADDRESS.

Gentlemen of the Convention: I appear before you without any prepared speech, and had I prepared an address, I would suppress it after hearing the eloquent speech which you have heard from your Governor. He has said all that can be said, and nothing more need be added. Amid all the undeserved honor which my country has conferred upon me, none has gratified me more than the tender you have just made me of the Presidency of the Convention. The war that lately hung over us is ended, and its logical events have settled the status of the nation. The war is over, and contrary to the expectation of the two antagonistic parties, its bitterness and proscriptions has disappeared, and I trust that it will never again disturb the peace of the nation [Applause.] In regard to that question allow me to say one word in reference to myself and our constitution, for I have a veneerate, not a mere love, for the constitution of the United States. I believe it to be the wisest organic law ever framed for the Government of men, not that there may not be defects found in it, but it should be obeyed; and if these be defects, and amendmedts are necessary, let them be made in accordance with its provisions.

you all know, and I beg pardon for alluding to it to-day, that while I occupied the Presidential chair, the fugitive slave law was being agitated in Congress, and throughout the country. My prejudices, I freely confess, were against slavery. The bill was presented for my signature, and I examined it carefully and candidly. I saw in it no violatisn of the Constitution; while on the other hand it carried out a provision of that Constitution which I had sworn to support. Knowing this to be so, and moreover, knowing that the signing of that bill would be the signing of my political death warrant, yet I never would hesitated to perform that duty, even if I had lost my right arm in its performance. (Applause.) But, as I before said, I congratulate you that this disturbing element has disappeared. Neither the North or the South anticipated this. God, in his wisdom, has cut the Gordian knot, and we are now, and I hope we will be one people.

In looki g over this great assembly, I am reminded of a Convention formed by our fathers, a few years after their struggle for Independence, for the purpose of making a constitution. It presented no legislative power, it was merely provisional. It was to propose a constitution to be submitted to the people. George Washington presided over that convention, and the result you all know. They prepared a constitution which was adopted by all the States, and which has been accepted by us ever since. To-day, I ask you to stand by that constitution—let the laws have their course. Do not believe that any expedient will justify you in its overthrow. Let political strife seethe and boil, but stand by the Constitution at all hazards.

But I have said already more than I intended to sav. In conclusion I have only to add that I trust my duties as the presiding officer of this Convention will be exceedingly light. This body cannot be governed like legislative bodies, with regulations and a fixed organization, by any one man; but courtesy and forbearance must come from all. I know that the courtesy of these gentlemen will not permit anything like disorder. In addition to this, allow me to ask one more favor. I have long since ceased to belong to any political party, and I trust, therefore, that the deliberation of the Convention will be outside and above all political questions. I trust there is before me gentlemen belonging to all parties; and, perhaps, gentlemen belonging to no party. We are here for another great object. We a spirit of unity let us work, and I can only say, I shall endeavor to discharge my duties impartially and to the best of my ability.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The first business transacted was the calling of the names of the Business Committee. The States represented were ca led and the following committee men were announced: Ala., Dr. Taylor; Ark., J. C. The clergymen, visitors and residents in the city, were invited to seats in the Convention.

A motion was made to receive all propositions for action during the Convention and refer the same to the Business Committee without debate, which prevailed, after a lengthy debate.

Col. G. C. Forney, of Texas, offered the following:

Resolved, That the Business Committee be instructed to report a committee consisting of one from each state, on the Southern Pacific Railroad: on the bays, harbors and channels of the coast; and on the navigation of the rivers of the South and West.

Resolved, That in the opinion of this Convention the importation of Chinamen into the United States in unlimited numbers is contrary to an enlightened public policy and will tend to imperil the prosperity of the cotton growing States, the great labor interests and are unjust to the industrial classes, and hence will introduce a new element of discord; that it merits the condemnation of all who have regard for the common welfare of our common country. [Applause.]

Mr. T. R. Lubbeck, of Texas, objected to the introduction of resolutions until after a permanent organization had been effected.

After a good deal of wrangling and fruitless discussion, the Convention adjourned till Wednesday morning.

Montgomery county; 300 dem. maj.

At Columbus the Democrats claim the election of Pendleton, and the Republicans assert that Hayes has 10,000 majority, but this majority is certain to be reduced.

Latest—Cincinnati 2:30 A. M. The returns received up to this hour indicate that Pendeletion has carried this county by about one thousand majority. The State has in all probability gone Republican by about 3,000. This is all we can obtain to-night.

Fremont—Two wards, 203 for Pendleton. Oberlin, rep. maj. 573.

Hardin—dem. gain 6.

Hamilton—Eight townships and precincts give rep. maj. 22

Butler—Hamilton City gives L. D. Campbell, dem., for Senate 568 maj., and Pendleton leads him. Campbell's majority in the county 2,000.

Cincinnati—Slow counting: much scratching; only two wards yet in, which give Hayes 304 maj.

Clarke—dem. gain 78.

Montgomery gives 377 dem. majority. Hamilton goes democratic by 2,000 at least. Ma. Pendleton's friends claim the State.

COLUMBUS, October 13—2 A. M.—Election returns as far as received show a very close election. Both parties claim the State ticket. The probabilities are that the Republicans have the State by a small majority; while the Democrats get the Legislature with the Senate Republican. It is impossible to give full returns to night.

ABSENTEES.

WHITE AND COLORED TROOPS.

All the disposable white recruits at Carlisle barracks are to be forwarded to Nebraska for assignment to the 5th cavalry. All disposablecolored recruits at Ft. Columbus, New York, and Newport, Kentucky, are to be sent to Omaha for assignment to the 13th infantry.

OUR FOREIGN POLICY.

This Government, notwithstauding the rejection of the tender of good offices between the Cubans and Spain, would doubtless renew it at a future time should circumatances justify a repetition. It will in the meantime enforce the neutrality laws, and hold itself in readiness to serve the cause of Cuban independence in such a manner as may not violate treaty obligations; but it will not allow itself to be drawn into complications with Spain, or any other European power, preferring to follow the path of peace as affording the best means of accomplishing all the ends desirable in Republics, and assisting those who struggle for independence.

REMARKABLE CO-INCIDENCE.

The remarkable coincidence of two former Judges of the Supreme Court appearing at its bar on the same day occurred to-day. Mr. Curtis, of Massachusetts, closing one cause, and Mr. Campbell, of Alabama, opening and closing another.

THE SWISS MINER'S SONG.

O Father, Son and Holy Ghost
Thou, God, dost fix the miner's post,
Thy word hath made the boundle-sstore
Of rock and earth, and precious ore.

Good metal we receive from Thee,
Help us to use it honestly,
For God and country as 'tis fit,
Nor let us blindly worship it.

Thy word and everlasting love
Better than shining ore shall prove
Christ is a mine of wealth untold,
Richer than silver, gems and gold.

Who sees God in the precious stone
Works best and worships him alone:
He follows Christ with all his heart,
And acts the Christian miner's part.

Down in the miner's profoundest night
Our lamps shine on and guide us right,
So, Lord, still may thy word divine,
Through life's dark path before us shine.

THE night that Mr. Touhey, of the St. Louis Journal of Commerce was drowned in Lake St. Clair, the foreman of the office and the foreman's wife simultaneously dreamed that they saw him floating in the water, dead.

CINCINNATI has one "waiting woman" outside of a concert saloon. She is to be seen daily in the middle of the street at the intersection of Plum and Longworth streets, waiting and watching for one who will never return.

MRS. ELIZA DEASU died very suddenly in Cincinnati, a few days ago, of hemorrhage of the lungs. The notable circumstance about the case is that no warning symptoms of weakness of the lungs had been experienced by the deceased.

THE Chicago Post denies that the frost has materially injured the corn in Illinois, and it thinks that there is now no room to doubt that the corn crop of the year is by odds the most bountiful ever produced in this country, and that the quality of the grain is unusually good.

AT Oakley Station, on the Marietta Railroad, last week, J. B. McClymon, a lawyer of Cincinnati, was cowhided by a Mr. Ebersole. The cause of the castigation was a statement said to have been made by McClymon that Ebersole's father had cheated the county in a real estate transaction.

LUCY STONE said at the Woman's Convention in Chicago: "Some mean cowards say if women vote they should fight. Now, she would ask, who perils her life when the soldier is born? The mother is his quartermaster until he is capable of finding his own rations."

SAID a male advocate of woman's right's: "When I am in a crowded car, and when a lady comes in, I think it is the duty of some other man to get up and give her his seat. I look around the car to see if any man in the crowd looks like making a move in that direction, and when I see them all keep their seats I hide my face behind a newspaper and blush for my sex."

A WORM which has heretofore been unknown in that vicinity, has made its appearance among some of the corn fields in Kentucky. It enters the stock either at the top or bottom and bores its course through, killing the tassel and perforating the blades. The outside rows of many fields have scarcely a stalk left. The worm, about half an inch in length, with striped body, is a new one, and unless an effective remedy is promptly found it will do immense damage.

ON Saturday last the workmen who are digging at the Battery, New York, for the new Government pier found, at the depth of about ten feet below the surface, an old kettle almost destroyed by rust. It contained a collection of old Dutch coins, a knife and fork, much damaged by rust, one or two broken tiles, and some crockery. It doubtless belonged to some of the old Knickerbockers, and had probably been buried about the time of the first occupancy of the island.

A LOUISVILLE liquor firm are charged with altering the date upon their barrel stamps to make their liquor appear older than it is, thus increasing its demand. The penalty for altering stamps is $200 for every package upon which a changed stamp is found, and in this case ninety-nine barrels were discovered with the date changed, on which the penalty is $19,800; and under the law the parties are also liable to indictment, and, if found guilty, to fine and imprisonment. Delano has directed proceedings to be instituted against the offending firm.

AT the festival of the employes of Brewster & Co., carriage manufacturers, at Lyon Park, New York, last week, one of the firm proposed a plan whereby the workmen will participate in the profits of the concern. Beside giving the highest wages Messrs. Brewster & Co. will divide a share of the profits, the amount to be determined upon consultation with a committee appointed by the men. It will cost the firm about $8,000. If a man is discharged during the year and his wages amount to $100, his interest shall not be forfeited, but be credited to the sick fund; and if a man leaves voluntarily his interest will go toward a fund for the sick and aged, and the firm will give at once $1,000 to this fund.

ASHLAND, Ohio, having been over-run with thieves, confidence men and incendiaries for some time past, has taken effectual means to rid herself of these pests of society. On Thursday night of last week a large meeting of citizens was held, vigilance committees appointed and resolutions passed, and endorsed by three hundred of the leading citizens, to stand by the committees in ridding the community of this class of rogues. Handbills have been struck and posted, giving the names of objectionable parties, and warning them to leave town or fare badly. Under this stimulus there has been quite an exodus of the lazy gentry.

A COLORED deck hand gave an exhibition of his strength the other day in Detroit. Several men were putting forth their united efforts to lift on end a hogshead of sugar in the Michigan Central freight depot, when he bade them get out of the way, and with no great apparent effort grasped the chines and turned up the huge weight. Something being said in regard to his strength, he then took a keg of nails and held it out at arms' length, grasping the chines at either end. With one hand he seized and moved a dray several feet, and with both hands carried it completely around. A box of tin, about as much as an ordinary man could carry, he held out at full length above his head, and shouldered a barrel of flour as easily as a boy could shoulder a small piece of wood.

THE husband of Agatha States, prima donna, followed her to the Academy of Music, New York, the other day, pistol in hand, and ordered her not to sing. An injunction silenced him and she went on with her song.

FOURTEEN months ago, it is reported, Dr. Livingstone was seen at Lake Tauganyika, by an Arab. The report is doubtless a hoax, for Arabs weren't in fashion fourteen months ago! Makers of Livingstone items will do well to pay more attention to the probabilities.

A PARTY under Lieut. Wheeler, sent to explore the great desert county of Colorado and south of White Pines, reports its arrival, after severe trouble, at Muddy river, fifty miles south of the mouth of the Rio Virgin. The party will return by the most westerly line and reach White Pine the 1st of November.

COL. FRANK L. RHOADES, of Shawneetown, Ill., has presented to the State Geological Department a tooth of some huge animal, probably a mastodon. The tooth is eight inches long by four wide. A card attached to it reads as follows: "This tooth, with two others, and some portions of a skull and jawbone, was found on the edge of the Ohio river, in a quagmire, near Shawneetown, Ill., at extreme low water, in the month of September, 1867. Weight when found, 6 lbs. 2 oz.; weight now, 5 lbs. 12 oz. Presented to the Geological Museum of Illinois by Col. F. L. Rhoades."

A SACRILIGIOUS thief entered the church of the Holy Trinity, at New Orleans, last week, under pretext of worshipping, and when alone in the building he lost no time in breaking open the sacristy and helping himself to the sacred vessels. He succeeded in carrying off three chalices, valued respectively at $100, $70 and $40, a large silver dish valued at 100, and three altar cloths. The thief was apparently so deeply engaged in prayer, when seen in the church immediately before the robbery, that he concealed both face and head in his hands, rendering it a difficult matter to identify him.

ON Sunday night last, as the schooner L. M. Chase, of Chatham, Mass., was off Minot's Ledge, a loud noise was heard by the fishermen on board, resembling the bellowing of a bull, which startled the men; but in a few moments their fright was increased on seeing their vessel, of eighty tuns burthen, suddenly lifted up in the water some six feet, and as quickly let fall again. The bellowing noise first heard was continued, when it subsided. The vessel, however, was found to have sustained no damage, and after further consideration it was ascertained that the strange commotion was caused by a finback whale. Some of these whales have recently been seen in the bay.

Fashion and Trade.

It is curious to notice upon what apparent trifles great commercial interests may turn. When hair powder went out of fashion half a century or more ago, there were not a few bankruptcies in consequence. If the ladies were to take it into their heads to discard the present arrangement of wires which support their skirts, a great deal of machinery, contrived for the manufacture of the flat-wire, and for other contrivances necessary to the process of giving bell shapes to our belles, would be thrown out of gear. What would be done with the skirts on hand it is hard to say. We have seen vines trained to run over them; but there would be an over-supply, even of such ornamental gardening.

The British Court, when court fetes were in fashion, more than once relieved depressed trade in certain branches, by balls or fetes, at which the articles suffering from want of demand were directed to be worn. The ribbon trade went sadly down when the small hats for ladies first came in, as there was no place for puffs of ribbon on the new hats. Now ribbons are at a premium again, for some that we see worn for belts and sashes, look as wide as silks for dresses. But the most marked incident in manufactures has been caused by the passion of young men and old for coarse woolens, "Cheviots," and American imitations. They certainly make up into very sensible business suits.

In consequence of the demand, low grade American wools, of the second and even third class, have crept up into competition in price with the superfine. The late war introduced woolen fabrics into much wider use than they ever were before. It will be a pity if wool does not keep its place. It is said to be more healthy than cotton or linen, and at any rate should never have been so much disused as it was down to 1860.

But fashions change constantly. Fine cloths, they say, are coming up again. There will be one advantage in this. The "million" will be more cheaply clad, when fashion takes its tax from the low grades. But we do hope our business men will, at least in business hours, still retain the serviceable suits which look as if "they meant business." Let the fitness of things be consulted.

The Origin of Rattlesnakes.

The attachment of the Red Indian aborigines to this famous reptile is proverbial; among nearly all the tribes, even at this present day, it is seldom disturbed, but is designated by the endearing name of grandfather. It is recorded, however, by the early historians, that when one tribe desired to challenge another to combat, they were in the habit of sending into the midst of their enemy the skin of a rattlesnake, whereby it would appear to have been employed as an emblem of revenge. And as for the origin of the rattlesnake, the old men among the Cherokees relate a legend to the following effect:

A very beautiful young man, with a white face wrapped in a white robe, once made his appearance in their nation, and commanded them to abandon all their old customs and festivals and to adopt a new religion. He made use of the softest language, and everything he did proved him to be a good man. It so hapened, however, that he could make no friends among them, and the medicine men of the nation conspired to take his life. In many ways did they try to do this—by lashing him with serpents, and by giving him poison, but were always unsuccessful. But in process of time the deed was accomplished, and in the following manner: It was known that the good stranger was in the habit of daily visiting a certain spring for the purpose of quenching his thirst and bathing his body. In view of this fact, the magicians made a very beautiful war chest, inlaid with mud shells, and decorated with rattles, and this chest they offered to the Great Spirit, with the prayer that he would teach them how to destroy the stranger. In answer to the prayer, a venomous snake was created and carefully hidden under a leaf by the side of the spring. The stranger, as usual, came there to drink, was bitten by the snake, and perished. The Cherokee nation then fell in love with the snake, and having asked the Great Spirit to distinguish it by some peculiar mark from all the other snakes in the world, he complied by transferring to its body the rattles which had made the chest of sacrigce so musical to the ear and so beautiful to the eye.

Oscillations of Railway Trains.

Sir Charles Fox states his opinion that the oscillation of railway trains, more especially at high velocities, producing what is ordinarily called "gauge concussion," is caused in very great measure by the use of wheels, the tires of which are portions of cones instead of cylinders. It is well known to engineers that the tires of railway wheels are generally coned to an inclination of one in twenty. It is considered that these were first introduced by Mr. George Stephenson, in the expectation of facilitating the passage of vehicles round curves by their adapting themselves through their various diameters to the different lengths of the two rails on which they were running. This however, is not the case in practice. No advantage is found to arise in the use of conical wheels in passing round curves, and as much evil results therefrom on straight lines, Sir Charles has constructed upwards of 250 miles of railway abroad, in the rolling stock of which he has departed from the usual form of wheel, and has used only cylindrical ones, and he has been gratified with the satisfactory reports of the steadiness of trains supplied with them.

THE prize money fund due to the sailors on Farragut's fleet who participated in the capture of New Orleans, it is announced, has been referred to a Commissioner to take testimony, and make a report to the Board of Claims. DR. WHITTIER
CONTINUES TO TREAT ALL private diseases. Syphilis in all its forms, all urinary diseases, and the effects of mercury are completely eradicated; Spermatorrhea or Seminal Weakness and Impotency, resulting from self-abuse or other causes, and which produce some of the following effects, as blotches, bodily weakness, indigestion, consumption, aversion to society, unmanliness, dread of future events, loss of memory, indolence, nocturnal emissions, and finally so prostrating the sexual system as to render marriage unsatisfactory, and therefore imprudent, are permanently cured. Persons afflicted with these or any other delicate, intricate or long standing constitutional complaint should give the Doctor a trial; he never fails.
A particular attention given to all Female complaints, Leucorrhea or Whites, Falling, Inflammation or Ulceration of the Womb, Ovaritis, pruritis, Amenorrhoea, Menorrhagia, Dysmenorrhoea, and Sterility or Barrenness, are treated with the greatest success.
It is self-evident that a physician who confines himself exclusively to the study of a certain class of diseases and treats thousands of cases every year must acquire greater skill in that specialty than one in general practice.
The Doctor publishes a medical pamphlet of fifty pages that gives a full exposition of Venereal and private diseases, that can be had free at office or by mail for two stamps, in sealed envelopes. Every sentence contains instruction to the afflicted, and enabling them to determine the precise nature of their complaints.
The establishment, comprising ten ample rooms, is central. When it is not convenient to visit the city, the Doctor's opinion can be obtained by giving a written statement of the case, and medicines can be forwarded by mail or express. In some instances, however, a personal examination is absolutely necessary, while in others daily personal attention is required, and for the accommodation of such patients there are apartments connected with the office that are provided with every requisite that is calculated to promote recovery, including medicated vapor baths. All prescriptions are prepared in the Doctor's own laboratory, under his personal supervision. Medical pamphlets at office free, or by mail for two stamps. No matter who have failed, read what he says. Hours 9 A.M. to 8 P.M. Sundays 12 M. to 9 P. M. Office, No. 9 WYLIE STREET, (near Court House,) Pittsburgh, Pa.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

This being election day, there was not that interest taken in business that there would otherwise have been; still, there was considerable feeling manifested, consequent upon the still further advance at Antwerp, and somewhat bullish character of the advices from the east. The bull element appear to be very sanguine of a strong market and better prices within the next thirty days, and the main argument advanced in support of their faith, (and it must conceded that it is a very good one) is the largely decreased stocks in all of the leading markets, both in this country and Europe—it is claimed that four of the leading foreign ports are short some 00,000 bbls, compared with the same time last year. While the "bulls" concede an increased production, they assert that there is an increased demand, and that it will take a much larger quantity of oil to supply the wants of the trade both in this country and Europe than was required last year. It is generally conceded, we believe, that the stocks in Europe are considerably reduced, much below what they were last year, yet here are those who claim that the deffiiency is much exaggerated; that no apprehension need be entertained in regard to a scarcity of oil; that the supply is ample to meet the demand, and, further, that those who entertain hopes of extravagent prices, this year, are pretty sure to be disappointed.

REFINED.

Market quiet though stronger with considerable inquiry and but very few sellers—in Pittsburgh at least. We can report 1,500 bbls spot at 32½; and three "lines" of 500 each, October to December, at 32¼. Later in the day, it was reported that "reusals" had been solicited for last half of October at 32¾@32¾. Early in the day there was a sale of 1,000 bbls in Antwerp, on Pittsburgh account, at 58½, while subsequently, the cable quoted at 59.

CRUDE.

Not a single sale reported—market very quiet though firmer. Quotations may be fairly given at 14¾@15, for 40 to 45 gravity; and 14¾@14¾, for 40 to 46.

RIVER NEWS.

The river is apparently at a stand with about 30 inches in the channel. Weather cloudy and cool with every appearance of rain. There was considerable rain at Cincinnati on Monday night.

There has been no arrivals since the date of our last report, and the Julia No. 2 for Zanesville, was the only departure.

The Glendale hos her sign out for St. Louis, and the Messenger will be the first boat out for New Orleans.

The Sallie must have gotten over Glass House sometime during Monday night, as she passed by Rochester yesterday.

—Mr. George M Haslett, of this city, was in St. Louis on Saturday last.

—The Bellevernon, Pittsburgh to New Orleans, passed Memphis on Sunday.

—The R. C. Gray, Emma No. 3, and Wauanita were the only boats in port at Cincinnati on Sunday.

John T. Roberts died in New Orleans recently. He was chief clerk of the Robert E. Lee.

—Captain John Brooks is chief of the steamer Richmond, now loading at St. Louis for New Orleans.

—Capt. H. V. Hart, formerly of the Lawrence, wants to purchase the Emperor at Parkersburg.

—The R. C. Gray from Memphis, and the Emma No. 3 from New Orleans arrived at Cincinnati on Sunday. The Gray will come through to Pittsburgh.

—Capt. John L. Rhodes, having completed the repairs on the Leonidas, left Cincinnati for Pittsburgh on Sunday night.

—There are mentions as probable candidates for Wharfmaster at Nashville, Dews, Harrison, Dortch, Tucker and Boyd.

—The Helen Brooks, from Baltimore, Md., to Bayou Teche, La., via northern lakes and canals and Mississippi river, passed Cairo Saturday.

—The Mollie McPike, on Wednesday night, on her way down, struck the Dubuque bridge and broke off about half of one of her guards.

—The Great Republic left St. Louis for New Orleans on Saturday, with 1,500 tons, engagements fer 1,000 more, and a perfect jam of passengers. So reports the St. Louis Democrat.

—Joe McCamment is probably the oldest pilot now on active duty, being sixty-two years old since June 5, and having been literally raised on the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers. It will be remembered that Captain McCamment, with his two nieces, was a passenger on the ill-fated United States when she collided with the America. His nieces were lost: and he was severely burned. He has brought suit against the company, laying damages at $60,000.

—The channel of Upper White river is being relieved of snags and flood wood. The Batesville Times says: An appropriation has been made by the County Court of this county, and contributions made by a number of citizens, to clear the channel of White river, between Batesville and Jacksonport. The work is superintended by Captain Thos. Cox, who is pushing it forward with his usual energy, and in a short time the river will be in a condition to admit the passage of boats to this place during the entire year.

PACIFIC RAILWAY GOLD LOAN.

Messrs. DABNEY, MORGAN & CO., 53 Exchange Place, and M. K. JESUP & CO., 12 Pine Street, N. Y., offer for sale the Bonds of the Kansas Pacific Railway. These Bonds pay seven per cent. in Gold; have thirty years to run; are Free from Government Taxation; are secured by a Land Grant of Three Million Acres of the Finest Lands in Kansas and Colorado. In addition to this special grant the Company also owns Three Millions of Acres in Kansas, which are being rapidly sold to develop the country and improve the road. They are a first mortgage upon the extension of the road from Sheridan, Kansas, to Denver, Colorado. The road in operation, 427 miles long, upon which it is also a mortgage, NOW EARNS MORE THAN ENOUGH NET INCOME TO PAY THE INTEREST ON THE NEW LOAN. There is no better security in the market—this being in some respects better than Government Securities. PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD. Price 96, and accrued Interest, in Currency. Pamphlets, Maps and Circulars furnished on application.

We have a full supply of the above Bonds on hand and for sale, and we take pleasure in recommending them as a very reliable and perfectly safe investment.

U. S. BONDS at Frankfort, 87⅛@88.

ALLEGHENY COUNTY has furnished a respectable majority to GEARY and WILLIAMS. Torn and distracted by local dissensions, embarrassed by questions which did not legitimately belong to the canvass, with leading Republican journals fighting wickedly against us, and with some of our own prominent politicians working to accomplish our defeat, it is gratifying that victory in any shape has perched on our banners. We have not done as well as we should. We have put a stain on our record in the meagerness of our majority, but we have triumphed over our enemies and made safe the State ticket despite the oft repeated assertion that this is "a good year for bolting."

IT IS highly probable that GEARY has been re-elected Governor by a majority not far from two thousand, and that WILLIAMS has secured his election by a vote considerably larger. For the result we are thankful. We have encountered much perplexing opposition in the campaign. With Packer's millions, with the seductive motto of this being "a good year to bolt," with the perfidy of Republican journals, with the general luke-warmness of all partisans, we have had a campaign hard to conduct and victory, even if not brilliant or decisive, is hailed with decided satisfaction. We feel that alone and single-handed, we have held the Republicans of Western Pennsylvania together and take to ourself the credit of the majority furnished, meagre though it be. Let our Republican friends profit by the lesson taught them in the present narrow escape from humiliating defeat.

PENNSYLVANIA.

We write at 3 A. M. of the result of yesterday's election tn this State. Our returns are not as full as have usually come to the press at this hour, nor are they as satisfactory in their tenor as it has been the Republican habit to look for during the past nine years. But, nevertheless, we think their footings will be still less satisfactory to the opposition. that they should come so near a victory for their State ticket, and then lose it, after all, must be more trying to Democratic patience than are our own reduced majorities to the old Republican confidence in the unswerving fidelity of our masses to the straightforward line of public duty.

We have re-elected Goveruor GEARY by a small, but we think, a sufficient majority. Judge WILLIAMS has done somewhat better, and there is still less doubt of his success. Comparing the vote of yesterday with that of October '68, we find that in the twenty-five counties, from which we have estimated majorities at this writing, the Republican losses exceed our gains about 1,800 votes. This deducted from last year's majority, 8,677, leaves a balance of about 8,000 still in our favor to await the returns from the other thirty-five counties. The same rate of loss throughout the Commonwealth would beat us. But we have no fears in that direction. We have heard from the worst. Allegheny has done very badly; we estimate her at 5,500, a loss of over 3,400 in the majority. Our net losses elsewhere do not average 200 per county. The opposition have not realized their hopes in the anthracite counties and in Philadelphia. Their victory has not been secured, as they expected, in their old strong-holds. The counties to come in will not hold up, in Democratic encouragement, with those as yet heard from. The official counts will generally run in our favor, our friends were, many of them, sick last night and telegraphed their fears instead of their judgment. There will be a broad shrinkage from the first reports, and we expect this to count almost uniformly for us.

We claim the election of GEARY by from 1,000 to 3,000 majority, and a still better figure for Judge WILLIAMS.

We have the Legislature by an increased majority in both branches. The Beaver and Somerset Senatorial districts are safe, and we gain the 1st district of Philadelphia. This gives us the next Senate by five majority. With such a movement in Philadelphia, the House clearly out of danger, with a Republican majority of not less than twenty.

The government of the Commonwealth thus continues with the Republican party which has guided its affairs with such splendid success during the past nine critical years.

OHIO.

The Republicans of Ohio made a gallant contest yesterday, and the sharp fight has resulted in a small but decisive majority for the State ticket. The Legislature is still in doubt owing to the defection of the great county of Hamilton, but the probabilities favor the election of a Republican Senate and of an opposition majority in the House. The Ohio Republicans have done so well that we must wish they had done a little better, securing the Legislative ratification of the XVth Article. This was the weight which they have carried in this canvass. The equality of suffrage was made the great issue, before a people which two years since voted down that broad and just principle by over 50,000 majority. If defeated again now, its friends have succeeded in carrying off all the honors, if not the substantial profits, of the campaign. The opposition lose their Legislative mastery, and their favorite, Mr. Pendleton, whose gubernatorial race has been by way of training for the next Presidential contest, has gone irredeemably to grass.

THE message of Gov. SENTER, of Tennessee, was laid before the Legislature on Monday. No report of its tenor has been received at this writing. The Senatorial question seems to have been settled, by a compromise between the two leading candidates, with a view to the electing of Johnson on the first ballot. Etheridge waiting for the shoes of Parson Brownlow, who is believed to be fatally ill.

DEXTER trotted, the other day, a half mile in one minute and four seconds—the fastest time ever made—and without a break. Mr. Horace Greeley should engage this nag to ride his own November race. Nothing else will preserve that candidate's bacon in a year which he has pronounced to be so good for bolting.

MINOR TOPICS.

A YEAR or two ago our cities were over-run with organ-grinders—mostly maimed or crippled soldiers, or men who wore the faded uniforms of soldiers, whether by right or otherwise, knowing that few men would pass them by without an alms, forgetting, or ignorant of the fact that most of the grinders were hired, on account of the sympathy they would attract, by the Italian owners of these wretched music-boxes. Now, most of these have disappeared and a new class has taken their places. The beggars in European cities show their wounds and sores, or deformities, in the streets, and thereby reap a harvest of small coin. A long delegation of this fraternity seems to have taken possession of our streets. There is the little girl, with the big, black Italian eyes, who begs for alms and kisses the hand that grants her prayer. There is the red-haired girl, whose ugliness and dirt are her sole capital. Then at the end of the suspension bridge there is the woman who looks as if she might be the heroine of the Song of Shirt, grown old but endowed with a sickly babe. There is the man who sits on a boulder and, with one hat on his head and another in his hand, turns up his pitifully scarred and sightless face to the passers by, and opposite to him stands the sun-burned sightless man who, from morn till dewy eve, with one hand ceaselessly stirs the accumulating pennies in the hat, which he holds with the other. Truly, Pittsburgh is growing very European in her ways and we only want a few palaces and picture galleries to render a foreign tour quite unnecessary.

THERE probably were never before so many elegant structures building in this neighborhood at one time as now. The Municipal buildings promise to add much to the architectural beauty of our cities. The new Library building is already one of the greatest ornaments of our streets. The new banks now going up or recently finished are models of solid grace. Wood street and Fourth and Fifth avenues are constantly in a state of semi-blockade, with material which is soon to be made part and parcel of numerous stately commercial piles. The Third Presbyterian church is truly magnificent, though still unfinished. St. Andrews' has already completely transformed the quiet dinginess of Ninth street, and Trinity Church, with its cosy double-gabled chapel, will be added to that avenue of churches on which it is soon to smile. In Allegheny more elegant dwelling houses have been, or are to be, built during the past two and coming years, than the whole city contained before. Considering the hardness of the times and the scarcity of money, there is a mystery in this epidemic of architecture which can only be explained by the fact that Pittsburgh capital is too solid and massive ever to be affected by the temporary state of trade or the freaks of Wall street's menagerie.

A FRENCH chemist compounded a preperation of phosphorus which can be aplied to the outer surface of the metalic numbers of houses which thereby become luminous and distinctly visible at night. One application of the new mixture will last for a month. If this discovery proves practicable, we should vote that a statue of the inventor be placed in the new Pittsburgh park, (when we get it,) for he certainly will prove one of the great benefactors of mankind. Hunting for a black iron number on a sooty house during a dark foggy evening in Pittsburgh, is one of those things which belongs, fortunately, to modern times only for otherwise Herculess would have despaired, and Job's reputation might have been materially damaged.

PEOPLE may take a great interest in hearing of the minor experiences of actors and singers, but it is hardly fair to believe that they care about hearing as much of this sort of gossip as is furnished them. For instance, it is not indispenble to be told half a dozen times that Nillsen is coming, and as many times that she is not coming, to this country. Nor is it absolutely necessary that the story of the bird should be told of every prima donna that wins fame. Some paragraphist hits this well, when he says that Napoleon was surprised at the amount of gossip which his recent illness furnished to the newspapers, and surmised therefrom that he was almost as interesting as Mlle. Schneider.

THERE are Democratic sheets whose only stock in trade seems to be the abuse of Presidents Grant and Lincoln and Secretary Stanton. Such papers are in the constant habit of writing of these gentlemen as if they were thieves, murderers and deep-dyed villains. Their language would disgrace the vilest flash-paper extant, and assertions are made which, if directed against any private citizen, would ensure for the editors the direst penalties of the law against libel. We are not surprised that the establishment of chairs of journalism in some of our universities is looked upon by many editors with hope and approbation, but regret that so many of them should reject this education as unnecessary.

PHILADELPHIA seems to find som difficulty in restoring the Schuylkill river to its wonted flow. Her people have scarcely had time to moisten their parched throats since the great water famine, and now the river, comes thundering down, with eleven feet of water over the dam, its flood penetrating into the houses of thousands of those very people who a few weeks ago were loudly complaining of drought. It would be well if Philadelphia could build a mighty reservoir large enough to receive their overflows, and keep it for use in those other days when the river becomes a second-rate turnpike.

The Old Spaniards.

The Saturday Review closes a long and able article on "Old Spain" with the following paragraph:

Along with Columbus, Cortez and Francisco Pizarro, the Spaniards reckon as the fourth of the chief conquistadores of America Hernando de Soto, who explored the mouth of the Mississippi and conqured, or at least fought and died in Florida. He was the son of a poor nobleman, and he began the world with nothing but his coat of arms, his sword and shield. He served under Pizarro in Peru, and being sent to meet the Inca, his foaming and rearing steed struck the Pruvians with astonishment and terror. Soto died on the banks of the Mississippi, and his followers dreading that if they buried him on land the Indians would desecrate his remains, loaded his coffin with stones and sank it in the river bed. His funeral has been compared to that of Alaric the Goth, whose body the distant ancestors of the Spaniards cast into an Italian river; and, in truth, the history of the Old World hardly produces any name so mighty that the names of the conquistadores may not deserve to be placed beside it. The Spaniards of that day were cast in a heroic mould, but the wealth after which they craved destroyed the virture by which they gained it Happy was the fate of our own country, whose seamen were forbidden to approach the tropics, and acquired amid polar ice a hardihood before which the success of the conquistadores quailed. In fifty years from the discovery of America the Spaniards founded a far-reaching the magnificent dominion. In another fifty years the English shook that dominion to its foundation. From that time to the present the energy of Spain has dwindled, and both the old country and her colonies, or what is left of them, have been given over to decrepitude and decay. It is still an open question, after a year of revolution, whether she has it in her to begin a new and vigorous life, and whether she has among her leaders men capable of displaying the courage and policy of the old conquistadores.

IN ROSS county, Ohio, last week, a horse belonging to Wm. Crabb, was observed to take his feed into his mouth, and, after chewing it a very short time, drop it out on the ground, apparently failing to swallow any whatever. This continued about four days, when a veterinary surgeon ordered the mouth of the horse to be held open by artificial means and pills put down into the very throat of the animal, so that he would be forced to swallow them. This was done, when it was discovered that immediately behind the back teeth was firmly lodged a corncob about three inches in length, which, crosswise, held the tongue firmly down. This was removed with some effort, and the horse took to his oats with renewed vigor.

MORE "Rig Tree Grove" have been discovered in California. They are giant redwoods of the species famous in Calaverns and Mariposa, and are found on the head waters of the Tulare and San Joaquin Rivers. One of these groves is said to contain trees measuring over one hundred feet in circumference and even these are reported to be excelled by those in an another grove. The new groves are about forty miles eastward from Visalia. A San Francisco paper says they are probably the same referred to by Professor Whitney, which were found by the State Geological Survey several years ago, but have not been thoroughly examined and described.

MR. JABEZ BACON, the oldest man in Winthrop, Me., aged ninety-three years, appeared on the streets last week with a horse twenty-five years old, a wagon forty-five years old, and a harness forty-eight years old.

THE GAINS AND LOSSES, OCT., '69.

We append a table embodying a comparative statement of the county majorities given at the October elections in Pennsylvania for 1868 and 1869. The table exhibits also, in parallel columns, the Republican gains and losses at yesterday's polls. Our majority was 9,677 for HARTRANFT last year.

A DECREE published in the Madrid Gazette fixes the strength of the navy of Spain during the coming year. The fleet will consist of several iron clad frigates, averaging about 23 guns and 840 horse power; five large wooden screw frigates, of 20 guns and 420 horse power each, and nine smaller ones, each carrying from two to three guns; eight paddle wheel steamers, with various armaments, ranging from 14 guns to 2, and one sailing corvette of 700 tons. In addition to this force, three transports, two screw steamers and one sailing vessel are provided for, together with one screw and one sailing frigate for purposes of instruction. For the protection of the coast of the Peninsula, three paddle wheel steamers of 2 guns each, one falucho of 12 guns, with 72 escampavias, and a few smaller boats are estimated for. The whole of these vessels are in existence, except one iron clad frigate, which is in course of construction.

THE Roman correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette writes: "I have obtained, from an official source, some very precise information as to the attitude assumed by the various sections of the Catholic Episcopate in respect to the Council. The Holy See counts on the complete adhesion of the Italian and American Bishops. The French Episcopate will form three parties. The German Bishops will be favorable to the Court of Rome on some questions, but will vehemently oppose it on others—particularly those of a political and social character. The Hungarian Bishops will be almost wholly in opposition, and the same spirit is evinced by the Bishops of Portugal; while the Spanish Episcopate, with one or two exceptions, is entirely devoted to the Holy See. Altogether, the Vatican is dissatisfied."

FOREIGN CONVICTS. — Comment was made a short time ago, upon the practice in England of pardoning convicts upon the condition of their leaving the country. The last foreign mail brings another instance of this unneighborly custom. The English Home Secretary has just granted a full pardon to a young man sentenced to five years penal servitude for forgery for a considerable amount, on condition of his immediately quitting England and remaining abroad.

THERE is a vigilance committee in Warrick county, Iowa, which warns a certain family named Rice, and their associates in crime, that if any more outrages are perpetrated in that county the committee will take the law in their hands. The proclamation further states: "We therefore give the parties herein mentioned until the first day of November, 1869, to settle up their affairs and quit this county forever; and if they do not take this warning then we will wind up their affairs for them in a quick and summary manner.

Swimmer's Cramp.

[From the Lancet]

On a fine summer's day some men are bathing in the sea. One of them an excellent swimmer, suddenly cries out, "I'm drowning!" sinks, and is no more seen until his dead body floats ashore some hours afterward. This was the case of Mr. G. Waugh, whose lamentable death was noticed in the journals a few days since, and the dreadful incident was but a repetition of what occurs several times each bathing season. How is this terribly sudden drowning to be explained? The victim is generally said to have been attacked by cramps and Manuals advert to the subject, and direct the swimmer who is seized to thrust his legs out violently and forcebly bend his foot upward. The explanation seems to be generally accepted, but it does not really explain this awfully mysterious sinking. We do not need to ask a good swimmer whether cramp in the leg, however severe would cause him to sink suddenly, and without a struggle, in the sea. It is impossible. The human body is specifically lighter than water, and so much lighter than sea water, that no effort is required to preserve it from sinking in that fluid. A swimmer seized with leg cramp would instinctively throw his head as far back as it would go, conscious that he might remain afloat in this position without the need of moving a muscle. The unfortunate swimmer who drowns under these circumstances always goes down suddenly, and without a struggle. This signifies that tne body suddenly becomes heavier than water. It can only do that by losing the air which is contained within the cavity of the chest, and the probability seems to be that the cramp which happens is a cramp of the respiratory muscles, by which the expansion of the lungs is prevented or their air is forced ut. Death would then occur as it often occurs in tetanus. This is a subject which has strangely escaped observation. Inquiry must, of course, be limited, for there is no opportunity of questioning the unfortunate victims; but the testimony of observers, or of those who have themselves experienced any kind of cramp in bathing, might be usefully brought to bear upon it. The feeling of insecurity which these cases occasion to swimmers is terrible. Could we but ascertain the exact circumstances, it is conceivable that some measures might be devised by which their occurrence could be prevented. It must be remembered that swimming implies a very much more violent muscular exercise than is apt to appear. It seems probable—though it is by no means certain—that the muscles of respiration, which are powerfully employed in swimming, may occasionally be seized with cramp as result of unusual exertion, with the effect we have described of causing compression of the chest. If such be the case, it is tolerably certain that regular and graduated gymnastic exercise would be the surest safeguard against an affection of muscles arising from being suddenly called upon to perform unusual exertion of severe character.

THOU BRINGEST ME LIFE—LUNG-WORT.

One of the truest and most suggestive ideas can be obtained from the caption at the head of this article; for of all diseases which impair human health and shorten human life, none are more prevalent than those which affect the lungs and pulmonary tissues. Whether we regard lung diseases in the light of a merely slight cough, which is but the fore-runner of a more serious malady, or as a deep lesion corroding and dissolving the pulmonary structure, it is always pregnant with evil and foreboding of disaster. In no class of maladies should the physician or the friends and family of the patient be more seriously forewarned than in those of the lungs, for it is in them that early and effielent treatment is most desirable, and it is then that danger can be warded off and a cure effected. In DR. KEYSER'S LUNG CURE you have a medicine of the greatest value in all these conditions. An alterative, a tonic, a nutrient and resolvent, succoring nature and sustaining the recuperative powers of the system, Its beautiful workings, in harmony with the regular functions, can be readily observed by the use of one or two bottles: it will soon break up the chain of morbid sympathies that disturb the harmonious workings of the animal economy. The harrassing cough, the painful respiration, the sputum streaked with blood, will soon give place to the normal and proper workings of health and vigor.

An aggregated experience of over thirty years has enabled Dr. Keyser, in the compounding of his LUNG CURE, to give new hope to the consumptive invalid and at the same time speedy relief in those now prevalent, catarrhal and throat affections, so distressing in their effects and so almost certainly fatal in their tendencies, unless cured by some appropriate remedy. DR. KEYSER'S LUNG CURE is so thorough and efficient, that any one who has ever used it, will never be without it in the house. It will often cure when everything else fails, and in simple cases will cure oftentimes in a few days.

The attention of patients, as well as medical men, is respectfully invited to this new and valuable addition to the pharmacy of the country.

DR. KEYSER may be consulted every day until 1 o'clock P. M. at his Great Medicine Store, 167 Liberty street, and from 4 to 6 and 7 to 9 at night.

THE FALL AND ITS DANGERS.

Animal as well as vegetable life is powerfully affected by the great atmospheric change that takes place in the Fall. But for the flowers, the foliage and herbs of the field there is no help. Their time has come and die they must. It is otherwise with man. For him the means of reinvigoration have been provided by skill and science. To recruit his exhausted energies and fortify himself against the disorders generated by the sudden depression of temperature and the unwholesome exhalations of Autumn, let him tone his nervous system, invigorate his digestion and give edge to his appetite with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. He may then face the morbid influences of the season fearlessly. The chilling night dews and heavy morning mists will have no power so make him shiver and burn, to affect his liver, to disorder his stomach or his bowels, to rack his joints with rheumatism, or to render any latent element of disease in his system active and dangerous. To the sufferer from general debility, whether constitutional or arising from other causes,—this potent vegetable specific is earnestly recommended. And let it be remembered that physical weakness opens the way to all maladies. Vigor is the chief defence of the human structure against all causes of disease, and HOSTETTER'S BITTERS may be truly pronounced the safest and surest of all invigorants. It is the most genial of all vegetable tonics, and is admirably adapted

FINANCE AND TRADE.

The money market is still in an unsettled condition, although money is easy on call at low rates; but banks and brokers are pressed for loans on long paper at high rates, but all not strictly good is refused.

Gold is dull, unsettled and lower, opening at 130⅜, declined to 130⅛, and closed at 130¼ with a firmer feeling. Whenever the premium approaches 130, the purchases by importers and speculators increase and the general opinion is that about 130 is the lowest point it is likely to touch. Exchange is stiffer and has quite recovered from the low rates prevailing during the past three weeks, with a lively inquiry for commercial paper.

Government securities are unsettled and weaker under lower gold quotations, and heavy offers to sell to the Government whenever advertised. It seems quite probable that bonds will rule lower as soon as the Government will be compelled to withdraw from the market as a purchaser of bonds.

Stocks fluctuate rapidly, but it appears that lower quotations will be made with a more stringent money market, which may be expected any moment. In local securities dealings are much restricted, with the exception of bank stocks.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, October 12, 1869.

The new Board of Erie Directors today re-elected Jay Gould President for the ensuing year. The Committee of the Lake Shore Directors, Messrs. Robinson, Banker and Clark, were in session this afternoon, preparing their report for the meeting of the Directors to-morrow, but nothing has leaked out in regard to the affairs of the Company. Lockwood & Co. have proposed to all their creditors to pay fifty cents on the dollar, of which 10 cents is to be paid in sixty days, 15 cents in six months, and 25 cents in one year. The other 50 cents the house does not engage to pay, but undoubtedly will when their affairs are in a condition to warrant it. It is understood one-third of the creditors have acceded to the terms, and it is expected the others will do so. In regard to the share certificates of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railway Company, the transfer agent has addressed the following letter to the Stock Exchange:

Lake Shor & M. S. R'y Co. N. Y. Oct. 11, 1869: To W. H. Neilson, Esq., President New York Stock Exchange:—

Sir: I am authorized by the Committee referred to in my advertisement of the 8th inst., to say that of the certificates named in said advertisement, fifty-two have been presented and certified as genuine, and the Committee would be glad to have the balance presented for their action.

Respectfully, D. P. BARHYAT, Transfer Agent.

Money market easy at 4 to 7 per cent. on call, with the bulk of business at 5 to 6 per cent. Discounts dull on the street at 9 to 12 per cent. Foreign exchange dull at 9@9¼ per cent. The steamer Hammonia sailed for Europe to-day and took out $247,000 in gold bars and Mexican silver. Gold opened at 130⅜ and closed at 130¼. Carrying rates 3@5 per cent. borrowing, and flat. The Sub-Taeasurer sold one million at 130 1-100@ 130 15-100.

Governments were dull during the entire day, and fluctuations were unusually slight. The only movement of consequence was the purchase of $400,000 1867s by one broker this afternoon at 118. Coupons of 1881, 119¾@120; do. '62, 120 @120¼; do. '64, 119¼@119½; do. '65, 119¾@119⅞; new do., 118@118⅛; do. '67, 118@118⅛; do. '68, 118@118⅛; 10-40's, 108⅛@108¾; Currency 6s, 107½@103¾.

Stocks dull, feverish and unsettled: Canton, 50; Cumberland, 26½; Western Union 36¾; Quicksilver, 13; Mariposa, 6½; do. PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, TUESDAY, October, 12 1869.

Business, as might have been expected, was very quiet to-day, as people generally were more interested in the election than anything else, and, as a consequence, trade was looked upon as a secondary matter. Father Hyacinthe's Protest.

The following is the text of the letter which Father Hyacinthe has addressed to the General of his Order in Rome:

My Very Reverend Father: During the five years of my ministry at Notre Dame de Paris, despite the open attacks and secret accusations of which I have been the object, your esteem and confidence have never failed me for a moment. I preserve numerous testimonies of them, written by your own hand, and which were addressed as much to my preaching as to myself. Whatever may happen, I shall hold them in grateful remembrance. To-day however, by a sudden change, the cause of which I do not seek in your heart but in the intrigues of a party all powerful at Rome, you arraign what you encouraged, you censure what you approved, and you require that I should speak a language or preserve a silence which would no longer be the entire and loyal expression of my conscience. I do not hesitate an instant. With language perverted by a command, or mutilated by reticence, I shall not ascend the pulpit of Notre Dame. I express my regret for this to the intelligent and courageous Archbishop who has given his pulpit to me, and sustained me there against the bad will of men of whom I shall speak at the proper time. I express my regrets to the imposing auditory who surrounded me there with its attention, its sympathies, I was nearly going to say its friendship. I would not be worthy of the auditory of the Archbishop, of my conscience, nor of God, if I would consent to act before them in such a role! I seperate myself at the same time from the convent in which I have resided, and which under the new circumstances that have happened to me renders it, for me, a prison of the soul. In acting thus I am not unfaithful to my vows. I have promised monastic obedience, but limited by the honesty of conscience, the dignity of my person and my ministry. I have promised under the benefit of that superior law of justice and of royal liberty, which is, according to the Apostle St. James, the proper law of the Christian.

It is for the more perfect practice of this holy liberty that I came to ask the cloister, now more than ten years ago, in the elan of an enthusiasm free from all human calculation, I shall not venture to add free from all the illusion of youth. If, in exchange for my sacrifices, I am to-day offered chains, I have not only the right but the duty to reject them. The present hour is solemn. The church passes through one of the most violent, dark and decisive crisis of its existence here below. For the first time in three hundred years, an Œcumenical Council is not only convoked, but declared necessary; such is the expression of the Holy Father. It is not in such a moment that a preacher of the Gospel, were he the last of all, can consent to remain as the mute dogs of Israel, unfaithful guardians, whom the prophet reproaches as unable to bark. Canes muti, non valentes latrare. The saints were never silent. I am not one of them, but nevertheless I belong to their race, filii sanctorum sumus, and I have always been ambitious to place my steps' my tears, and' if necessary, my blood, in the tracks which they have left, I raise, therefore, before the Holy Father and the Council, my protestation as Christian and preacher against these doctrines and practices, calling themselves Roman, but which are not Christian, and which in their encroachments, always most audacious and most baneful, tend to change the constitution of the Church, the basis as well as the form of her teaching, and even the spirit of her piety. I protest against the divorce, as impious as it is insane, which it is sought to accomplish between the church, who is our mother according to eternity, and the society of the nineteenth century, of whom we are the sons according to the times. and toward whom we have also some duties and attachments. I protest against the more radical and dreadful opposition to human nature, which is attacked and made to revolt by these false doctrines in its most indestructible and honest aspirations. I protest above all against the sacrelegious perversion of the Word of the Son of God himself, the spirit and the letter of which are equally trodden under foot by the pharisaism of the new law. It is my most profound conviction that if France in particular, and the Latin races in general, are delivered over to social, moral, and religious anarchy, the principal cause is without doubt not in Catholicism itself, but in the manner which Catholicism has during a long time been understood and practiced. I appeal to the Council about to meet, to seek for remedies for the excess of our evils, and to apply them with as much force as gentleness. But if fears in which I do not wish to share come to be realized, if the august assembly has not more liberty in its delibratios than it has already in its preperation, if, in a word, it is deprived of the essential character of an Œcumenical Council, I will cry to God and men to call another truly united in the Holy Spirit. Not in the spirit of party, and representing really the Universal Church, not the silence of some men, the oppression of others. "For the heart of the daughter of my people am I hurt; I am black; astonishment hath taken hold on me. Is there no ba'm in Gilead? is there no physician there? Why then is not the health of the daughter of my people recovered."—Jeremiah viii. In fine I appeal to your tribunal, O Lord Jesus! Ad tuum Domine Jesu tribunal appello. It is in your presence that I write these lines; it is at your feet after having prayed much, reflected, suffered and waited much, that I sign them. I have confidence that if men condemn them on earth you approve them in heaven. That is sufficient for me living or dying.

FR. HYACINTHE.

Superior of the Barefooted Carmelites of Paris, second preacher of the Order in the province of A vignon.

Paris Passy, Sept. 20 1869.

THE cultivation of cotton in the East Indies, it is asserted, has become more popular among the natives, who have discovered that it is more profitable to grow cotton at twenty cents a pound, than to raise the millet grain for consumption at home. The cotton exported from India in 1860 amounted in value to $27,500,000; but the crops for 1869, it is estimated, will bring $100,748,125. The East Indian cotton is short staple and decidedly inferior to that grown in the United States; but greater care in cultivation has been exercised, and more attention paid to packing the bales without the admixture of dirt.

Unnatural Deaths.

They do some things better in Great Britain than we do here, and one of the things in which they excel is the thoroughness and accuracy of the vital statistics. One of the recent returns of the Registrar-General, who has the charge of collecting and systematizing these statistics, gives the figures for five years, extending from 1863 to 1865 exclusive, of all the "violent or unnatural deaths," under which definition he includes all not resulting from disease or old age, which have occurred in the United Kingdom. During that period there were no fewer than 83,853 "unnatural deaths," of which, as would be expected from the greater exposure of men to causes of peril, 62,708 were those of males. Six hundred and twenty-one of these were due directly to intoxication; though this, of course, is but a portion of the total number of lives sacificed through strong drink. Railways are debited with 4,175 violent deaths, which shows that even in careful England the locomotive and the rail does its work of slaughter. The mine, however, leads the ghastly march in the number of its victims. Five thousand eight hundred and ninety-eight miners have perished by explosions, inundations, falling in of the mines, etc. The most curious, and perhaps also the most revolting, revelations of these statistics is the enormous proportion of what might be termed child murders, through the carelessness of the parents or protectors. Out of the number of 83,853 violent deaths, no fewer than 19,510 happened to children under five years of age. This is nearly one-fourth of the total; and the Registrar-General writes down that 3,938 of these infants were burnt to death, 3,267 scalded to death, 1,950 drowned, and 5,134 suffocated. Under the head of "mechanical injuries," such as fracture, falls, etc., the Registrar-General returns 28,114 deaths; under that of "chemical injuries," such as burns, scalds and poisoning, 14,942; by drowning, suffocation or other forms of asphyxia, 23,828, and 6,896 by miscellaneous and untabulated violence or mischance. Suicide adds 6,699 to the list, and of this total nearly five thousand were males. Between the ages of fifteen and twenty, however, more girls than boys committed suicide, the figures being 165 females to 130 males between those ages. Above those ages the proportion runs entirely against the males. Until between the ages of forty-five but 282 females committed suicide, against 1,135 males. During the five years seventy-one convicts, including three women, came to an "unnatural and violent death" by hanging. The death roll contains couriosities of dissolution of which the following are examples:—"Two persons, one very old and one very young, were killed by game cocks, one person from artifical teeth; others from swallowing a fish-bone, swallowing a pin, a needle, a half penney, a nutshell, a hook; one died from the sting of a wasp, one from the bite of a donkey, and one from fright in a storm."—Baltimore American

Comfortable Suicides.

An exchange says: Comfort keeps pace with civilization, or possibly the two terms are nearly synonymous. Unpleasant duties will always exist, but the growth of civilization tends to make their performance easier and less distasteful. The ordinary business of life is now transacted far more easily than it was twenty years ago, thanks to telegraphs, underground railways, concrete pavements, and other modern conveniences. And now the friends of the art of suicide have become imbued with what New England people call "prowgress," and are making the act of self-destruction as easy and comfortable as possible. In place of clumsily blowing one's head to pieces with an uncertain charge of buckshot or with an unreliable pistol-ball, one can now avail one's self of the sweet boom of nitro-glycerine, and by its aid suddenly blow head, body, and the entire animated neighborhood into minutely comminuted and utterly irretrievable smash. Drowning, too, has been vastly improved. We now no longer jump roughly into muddy mill-ponds, or coarsely and inartistically choke ourselves in slimy ferry-slips. There is now a better way of drowning, and it was only the other day illustrated by an unknown suicidal artist at Niagara. This person, after having laid his clothes where they would be secure from harm, walked out into the current above the falls, and, "sitting down," calmly suffered himself to be washed into eternity. Here was seen the ripe results of civilization and "progress." This man scorned to tire himself by walking over the falls, or to clownishly suffer himself to flounder disorderly over the brink. On the contrary, he sat down and leisurely, gracefully and comfortably permitted himself to float over. So much has civilization taught the suicidally disposed man.

IN Edinburg they have a steam omnibus which goes up hill at the rate of seven miles an hour, and down at the rate of nine; turns in the road with ease; can be stopped upon the instant, and can pick its way like a cat between files of contending carriages, ruts and wagons. In country places this will no doubt prove a valuable addition to the vehicles devoted to passenger carrying; but it would be of no advantage to cities. What is needed in crowded and growing cities like New York is the underground railway. This, it appears to us, is the chief and most beneficial of the many "reliefs" proposed. People, generally, are opposed to steam surface vehicles in cities, although (we think) their opposition is founded on prejudice rather than reason. The underground project is the best of all, because it will meet the needed requirements much better in every way.

MAN's inhumahity to man dosen't pay, as the typical Yankee would express it; and now we find recorded satisfactory proof of it. The inhuman driver of an express wagon in Indianapolis the other day refused to take some of the wounded from the Fair grounds to the city unless at an exorbitant rate. The number of his wagon was published in the papers, and the citizens found they had no further occasion for the services of that driver. He changed the number, but this did not conceal his identity. He painted his wagon another color, but the indignation and scorn of the people still follow him, and he will probably remove to Chicago.

FOREIGN POSTAGE.—It is reported that Postmaster General Cresswell is now negotiating for the reduction of the postage between the United States and Great Britain from twelve to six cents. A large number of the members of the English Parliament are believed to be in favor of this measure.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SEAWEED TONIC AND MANDRAKE PILLS will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the livor and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens into the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well. This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. Schenck, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivaled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abcesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow, the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all billious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 245 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparation with the same remarkable success. Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Dr. Schenck, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond street, New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half dozen. Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. For sale by all druggists. mv19:151-d&F

SIX NIGHTS ONLY AND A MATINEE.

OPENING NIGHT, MONDAY, OCT. 18.

The management in announcing this memorable musical season, Mdme. PAREPA ROSA will inaugurate a new epoch in the history of the American stage. Her great success in Italian Opera in Europe and in this country, has given her that substantial fame in her musical career (which has consisted of an uninterrupted series of ovations) until it has become unrivaled in popularity. In London her achievements in English Opera were equal to those which distinguished her on the Italian stage, and her numerous musical triumphs in California and in the States during several seasons, and recently her wonderful display of power before 50 000 spectators in the great Coliseum of the National Peace Jubilee, in Boston, have united the entire American press in pronouncing Mdme. PAREPA ROSA the great lyric artist of the age. Her devotions to the highest order of compositions, and her grateful regard for the American public will stimulate her to every possible exertion to establish English Opera a permanent institution in this country.

Allegheny Councils will meet to-morrow night.

Committed.—Thomas McCormick was committed to jail yesterday, by Justice Kerr, of McClure township. His wife complained that he had made fierce threats against her life. As he passed through the bars, a tender feeling seemed to come over him, and he turned and bid the sentinel of justice who had accompanied him, a tender and affectionate farewell. There's sentiments in Thomas.

Leg Broken.—Yesterday morning at nine o'clock a German, whose name we could not learn, while assisting in lowering a barrel of cider into the cellar of a house on Monterey street, Second ward, Allegheny, had his right leg broken below the knee by the barrel, which accidentally slipped and came against it. He was removed to his residence, on the corner of Ohio and Middle street, Third ward, and medical attention procured.

The sale of tickets for Parepa Rosa's Opera season, (six nights,) takes place to-day at Mr. Kleber's music store, No. 122 Wood street. Season tickets will be disposed of at $7,50, and single tickets at $1,50 each, entitling the bearers to reserved seats. This being the first time this gifted cantratrice has appeared in Opera, in Pittsburgh, she will undoubtedly be largely patronized. It is particularly requested, so as to avoid the usual "rush" at the entrance to the Opera House, that the audience will form into line.

Croft & Phillips, Real Estate Agents, No. 139 Fourth avenue, continue to distribute to all who call. copies of the Pittsburg Real Estate Register. Those of our readers seeking homes in the city, town or country cannot fail to get suited out of the large list reprefented by Messrs. C. & P. Those having real estate for sale will find it to their interest to secure the services of the above firm as they have superior advantages for bring what they represent before the people.

Alleged Larceny of Corn.

Yesterday, Mr. George Woodford, of of Jefferson township, made information before Alderman McMasters, against his brother William Woodford, and his wife Mary and daughter Elizabeth, Woodford, for larceny. The prosecuter states that for some time past he has observed the mysterious disappearance of his corn and potatoes from a field on his farm. Determined to ferret out the mystery, he lay awake one night in the field and alleges he discovered the accused about leaving in the morning just before daybreak, with thirty bushel of corn, which they had husked during the night—hence the information. Warrants issued.

The Keystone Pottery.

The ware rooms of the Keystone Pottery, Messrs. Kier & Co., proprietors, No. 363 Liberty street, are filled with a choice assortment of the finest styles and makes of queensware to be found in the city. The cheapness, durability and high finish of the Keystone ware is its greatest recommendation, and that which has made it heretofore so popular. Housekeepers in need of anything in this line cannot do better than by purchasing from the large assortment on hand at 363 Liberty street. By so doing they will secure the best article at a cheap rate, and at the same time give their patronage to a home institution.

An Excellent Idea.

If you wish to ask a favor of a man never do so unless you are certain he is not at the time in a condition of hunger. To make sure of this a good plan would be to take him to the Continental, Fifth avenue, next door below the Postoffice, and allow him to satiate his appetite on the appetising fare for which the institution is so famous, and after that, ten chances to one, you will have no difficulty in getting him to grant the favor asked, if it be in his power. The experiment is well worth a trial by those in need of assistance.

Distressing Death.

Yesterday morning, about nine o'clock, Mrs. Geiseman, residing on the Perrysville Plank Road, at the head of Beaver street, Allegheny, came to her death in a very distressing manner. The house is built on the the hillside, and the entrance to the yard is effected by a pair of steps, alongside the house. Mrs. Geiseman was engaged in baking and was in the act of coming down the steps with two pans of bread in her hands, when she missed her footing and fell from the top of the flight to the ground below, a distance of about eight feet, alighting on her head and dislocating her neck. A workman employed in the vicinity, heard the cries of the children and ran to the spot, but the woman ceased to breathe in about a moment after he had picked her up. A physican was quickly summoned, whose opinion was that the death was caused by the dislocation.

The victim was a woman in middle age and the mother of several children, none of whom are over ten years of age. Her husband is a painter. Coroner Clawson held an inquest during the afternoon, when a verdict in accordance with the facts was rendered.

Where to Go.

Mr. J. D. Egan, No. 41 Sixth avenue below Smithfield street, has on hand a rare and valuable collection of books issued by American and Foreign publication houses. The stock embraces volumes on Theology, Geology, Mineralogy, Conchology, together with a large assortment of classical productions, consisting in part of works in the Hebrew, Greek, Latin, Spanish, Italian, German, French and Arabic languages. He has also the latest issues in relation to Mathematics, Architecture, Medicine, Law, &c., &c., which will be found unusually full and complete. In the news department all descriptions of Stationery, of the best quality may be obtained, together with the late magazines and illustrated weeklies. For anything in his line Mr. Egan's establishment is the right place for purchasers.

The Continental.

To-day a superb dinner will be placed on the board at the Continental, next door below the Postoffice, Fifth avenue. Those who have heretofore tested the ability of Mr. Holtzheimer as a caterer to the public tastes, will understand this announcement to mean something peculiarly attractive. Well prepared, served up in clean, neat style, and by attentive and polite waiters, the entertainments at the "Continental" are always of a first class character.

Dancing Academy.

Those wishing to become proficient in the art of "tripping the light fantastic toe," have excellent advantages offered them at present at Prof. Cowper's Dancing Academy, No. 51 Fifth avenue, opposite the old theatre. The days of tution are Wednesdays and Saturdays. Masters and misses at 3 o'clock P. M., gentlemen's class at 8 o'clock in the evening. Prof. Cowper is an experienced teacher, and renders entire satisfaction. W:F:M: 2 w.

Be Beautiful.

If you desire beauty you should use Hagan's Magnolia Balm.

It gives a soft, refined, satin-like texture to the Complexion, removes Roughness, Redness, Blotches, Sunburn, Tan, &c., and adds a tinge of Pearly Bloom to the plainest features. It brings the Bloom of Youth to the fading cheek and changes the rustic Country Girl into a Fashionable City Belle.

In the use of the Magnolia Balm lies the true secret of Beauty. No Lady need complain of her Complexion who will invest 75 cents in this delightful article.

Lyon's Kathairon is the best Hair Dressing use. MWFF.

Important.—The lecture season will open next month which will be an interesting fact for lecture goers, but not more so to ladies than the announcement of the opening a of new and carefully selected stock of goods at the fashionable dress goods and trimmings store of W. W. Moorhead, No. 81 Market Street. Mr. Moorhead is determined to keep his stock up to a first class standard and is always successful for "when there's a will there's a way."

To Heads of Families—Under the head of Fresh Canned Goods on our fifth page to-day you will find the card of the time honored and well known grocery store of John A. Renshaw, corner of Liberty and Hand streets. It is unnecessary for us to say anything in behalf of this house as it is a well known fact they sell just what they advertise to do and persons buying can rely on their goods being what they are represented.

Ladies will please remember their favorite resorts for cream candies and taffies, lozenges; roasted and cream almonds and extra fine cream bon bons, at 112 Federal street Allegheny City. George Beaven. 6t

NEWS BY CABLE.

London "Times" on American Finances —Spanish Republican Leaders Fleeing the Country—Nothing Reliable from Cuba.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

GREAT BRITAIN.

LONDON, October 12.—The Times has an editorial to-day on financial matters in the United States. The writer says there may be circumstances in the financial position of the United States authorizing so glaring a departnre from the sound rules of public economy; but it is difficult to deny that a mere struggle of gamblers, by an act of the Government, is magnified into an event of national importance. If Mr. Boutwell had persevered, more money would have changed hands—more fortunes made or mared—other brokers gone mad, absconded or committed suicice; the threat against Fisk might have been executed. It is not easy to decide whether this will be for good or evil. It might have allayed this peculiar fever, sobered gambling madness, weaned some helpless dupes from the Exchange, rid some arrant rogues. The lesson will not be altogether lost; but had the lesson gone to the end, it might have been more impressive and its precepts enhanced by a higher cost.

The steamers Ville De Paris and Alepo from New York have arrived out.

In the New Market races to-day the Czarwitch was won by Cherrie, and the Clear Wall stakes by Atlantic.

SPAIN.

PARIS, October 12.—Advices from Valencia state that fighting is still going on there. The republic has been proclaimed at Malaga and Valladalid. Desertions have been attempted at Madrid, but have been promptly quelled without serious results.

PARIS, October 12.—Evening.—It is certain the Republicans have been defeated in Vallencia. Senor Castellar, the celebrated leader in the Cortes, has fled into Portugal from Saragossa, having been threatened with assassination in that city. Suner, a Republican leader, has been abandoned by his partizans. He himself fled to France. Sales, another leader, was killed.

It was reported that a fight had taken place in the eastern department of Cuba during which thirty insurgents were killed. The Spanish loss was not given.

A fight occurred near Santa Espirita, between the forces of Spain and Cuba. The Spanish Colonel Odaly was wounded. The Cubans lost twenty-seven in killed.

Municipal corporations in various parts of the Island are sending to the Captain General their adhesion to the existing order of things, together with expressions of loyalty to Spain.

FRANCE.

PARIS, October 12.—It is again reported that the corpse of the father of the murdered family has been discovered in Alsac.

The Emperor departed for Compeigne to-day.
